

Release and Usage Agreement

Thank you for taking part in our {access}ories beta-testing. As this product is currently in beta-testing phase, not all participants will receive a test product at the end of the process. As we plan to make this service commercially and widely available to others in the future, your data will be used to further develop the {access}ories platform and products. Please see our Privacy Notice [below/link] to find out more about how we process your data.

You understand that this is a research project, and that should you be provided with the test product, this is not currently available for public use. Landor & Fitch does not guarantee any particular result from using the test product, and does not accept any liability for any damage, injury or loss that may result from its use. Please seek professional advice if you have any concerns about using the test product safely. You agree that you will not hold Landor & Fitch, or anyone associated with us, responsible for any liability resulting from the use of the test product.

Consent for processing special category data

In providing you with access to the beta-testing platform, we will require some information about your health and any medical conditions relevant to the creation of your test product. The health information will only be used to produce your test product (if you are selected to receive one) and to assist us in analysing the effectiveness of the device and beta-testing platform along with your views and opinions.

[] I agree to the use of information I provide you with regard my health and any medical conditions for the purpose outlined above.